

Multi-Racial & Poly-Ethnic Family Workshops

Are you a white parent with biracial children? Are you struggling with how to talk to your kids about current issues in our country and race relations? Do you want to know more about others' lived stories?

Join Corinne for an open forum on July 29th at the Hanover YWCA. She will be there discussing her experience with her own white privilege, how to have courageous conversations about race, and her experiences with raising children who are biracial. Be prepared to speak your truth, confront your own humanity, and question your own expectations.

Corinne Conner has been in education since 2002. Her career began by teaching math at the secondary level in Maryland. Corinne garnered a Masters of Education in Curriculum and Instruction specializing in Secondary Mathematics in 2011 and an M.Ed. in Educational Leadership in 2015. While teaching for Baltimore County Public Schools, she wrote various curricula for math and ESL Math. She has held the role of the Dean of Students, Department Chair, Instructional Coach, and lead teacher. Corinne joined IU12 in March 2019 and has been implementing professional development in math, literacy, responsive classroom management, and culturally responsive teaching. In addition to these professional development sessions, she has recently become trained to train in LETRS and Restorative Practices/Facilitating Restorative Conferencing.
